We present the Transversal Fat Cap: a cap that projects a chiseled shot of paint that produces the same effect as a beveled marker.

This new cap functions comparably to the Transversal Cap, allowing for a wider line (from 3.5 to 9 cm), but can reach even further. Its exit mechanism is adjustable just like that of its smaller cousin, making it possible to adjust the transversal inclination of its shot within 90°.

The Transversal Fat Cap is specially designed to paint typography but it is also very useful for filling in spaces efficiently.
